BUSY TERM OF COUNTY COURT

Forty Criminal Cases To Be Begun April 17—Five Arraigned Monday —Day Calendar For Wednesday.

The increase in crime in Ulster county gives every promise of furnishing a busy term of county court, which convened at the court house on Monday afternoon with Judge Joseph M. Fowler presiding. There is not a grand jury in attendance at the present term of court, the only term of county court at which a grand jury is in attendance being the September term.

Jurors Absent and Excused.

On the call of the trial jurors, five were reported to be absent: J. Herbert Cramer of Kingston city; Frank Ecker of Shandaken, who was announced to be sick and whom Judge Fowler excused; Joseph Kemble of Marbletown, who is out of the county; William Lounsbery of Kingston city; Eugene Tremper of Plattekill; Abram Wilber, Marbletown, whom Judge Fowler had excused.

Of the jurors who asked to be excused, Judge Fowler excused William W. Brady of Rochester; Charles Cocks, Ulster; Robert L. Crawford, Shawangunk; Arthur Hasbrouck, Marbletown; Charles Kimball, Saugerties; Andrew Parslow, Kingston city; George Sheeley, Wawarsing; William Wolters, Esopus.

Silbert Terwilliger, formerly of Montela, in the town of Wawarsing, also was excused as he has removed from Ulster to Sullivan county where he now resides. The printed notice sent to jurors by the sheriff had been forwarded to him from Montela and he thought it his duty to obey it although it would be midnight before he could reach home.

Try Civil Cases Wednesday.

On the call of the civil calendar, which contains eighteen cases, eight were marked for trial, three were put over the term and seven followed the customary course of being marked "reserved."

In the case of George Coddington against Michael Giresi and another, there was no appearance on the part of the defendant but the plaintiff and his witnesses were present, and a motion by defendants' counsel, Chris. J. Flanagan, to dismiss the complaint, was granted.

Day Calendar For Wednesday.

The following day calendar was made up for Wednesday:

No. 8. Louis LeFevre against Aaron G. Baldwin. Appeal from justice's court. Judge James Jenkins for the plaintiff; Brinnier, Canfield and Brinnier for defendant.

No. 10. James J. Clare against Nellie Clare and others. Action in partition. Chris. A. Murray for the plaintiff; Brinnier, Canfield and Brinnier for the defendants.

Criminal Trials Begin April 17.

In response to an inquiry by Judge Fowler regarding criminal cases, District Attorney Traver said the grand jury last week had completed one of the longest sessions a grand jury ever had held in Ulster county, and it would probably require two weeks before the stenographer's minutes could be transcribed, so that he had in mind to suggest an adjournment for two weeks and then begin the trial of criminal cases.

There is a large criminal calendar, said District Attorney Traver, there being about forty criminal cases to be disposed of. While an unusually large number of cases had been disposed of at the last term of county court, the last grand jury had presented twenty-five additional indictments.

Experience had shown said Mr. Traver, that it was difficult to secure the attendance of jurors at the June term of court because farmers were necessarily engaged in their important work at that time, and therefore he would like to dispose of as many cases as possible at the present term of court, because another grand jury would be in session when the Supreme court convenes in May and two grand juries meet in the fall, immediately after the summer recess. He could not, however, tell what disposition of cases was desired by counsel for the various defendants.

It was agreed that the criminal calendar should be called several days before April 17, at which time an extra panel of jurors could be drawn.

Five Defendants Arraigned.

District Attorney Traver arraigned defendants against whom sealed indictments were handed up by the last grand jury, as follows:

Bessie Sutton, charged with assault in the first degree, committed at the town of Hardenbergh on January 20, in administering bi-chloride of mercury tablets to her daughter. She said she had no lawyer and no money to employ one. District Attorney Traver suggested that a plea of not guilty be entered and that counsel be assigned.

John Worf, charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquor in the city of Kingston on January 3. Andrew J. Cook appeared for Mr Worf and entered a plea of not guilty. Bail was furnished in the sum of $1,000.

John F. Conlin, charged with possession of intoxicating liquor in the city of Kingston on December 17. William D. Brinnier, Jr., appeared for Mr. Conlin and entered a plea of not guilty. Bail of $1,000 heretofore given was continued.

Orville Purdy and Emerson DuBois, charged with burglary in the third degree and unlawfully entering a building at the town of Woodstock on December 21. Andrew J. Cook appeared for Purdy and William D. Brinnier, Jr., for DuBois and both entered pleas of not guilty. Bail was continued.

In the case of Stephen D. Christiana, who previously had furnished a bond to keep the peace which had been continued at the last term of county court until the present term, District Attorney Traver announced that the complainant was in court and asked that the bond be continued to the next term of court, which was ordered by Judge Fowler.

Court adjourned to Wednesday morning at ten o'clock.

GOV'T TO GO AFTER BACK TAXES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 4.—More than a quarter of a billion dollars in uncollected and "tested" taxes will be garnered by the government this year, and devoted to relieving some of the embarrassment incident to the huge falling off in this year's returns, according to estimates made today by treasury officials.

This, it was stated, will be one of the chief beneficial results from the general shakeup of the business department of the government, now in progress.

There are now on the books of the treasury department more than $1,000,000,000 in back taxes with prospects that this enormous amount will be increased as the business progresses of getting the books on a current basis. Many of them are war claims arising out of war profits which the antiquated machinery of the treasury has not been able to reach in the four years since the war stopped.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon estimates that the tax deficit this year will reach $300,000,000. The efficiency experts of the government advised it could be made up through adjustment of back taxes and the greater customs revenues. Treasury officials say this is at the root of the treasury shakeup.

LIVINGSTON STREET CHURCH CIRCLE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of Livingston Street Lutheran Church was held at the home of Mrs. L. Heppner on Crane street. The meeting was well attended in spite of the inclement weather. All reports showed the society to be in a flourishing condition. The treasury shows a balance of several hundred dollars which is being stored away toward the building fund of the new school and hall. Mrs. L. Heppner and Mrs. F. Ehnes were re-elected as president and treasurer respectively. Mrs. Charles Petri was elected secretary in place of Mrs. C. Schleede, deceased.

Mrs. Brandes, now of Cleveland, formerly a member, who has remembered the society with a gift on every anniversary was tendered a vote of thanks. A vote of thanks was likely given all those who contributed to the success of the society's recent chicken-pie supper. The table was adorned with the usual birthday cake which this time bore fourteen candles. After lunch the society adjourned with the resolution to make the fifteenth year the best in its history.

WOULD HAVE ARMY ENFORCE DRY LAW

Harding And Hughes Urged By M. E. Conference To Enforce 18th Amendment—Harvey Attacked In Speech.

President Harding was called upon to call out the army and navy to stop bootlegging, and Secretary Hughes was called upon to ask the British Government to put an end to the smuggling of liquor into this country by ships flying the British flag, by the New York Methodist Annual Conference this afternoon.

These requests were proposed by the Rev. Dr. Ferdinand C. Iglehart, as Chairman of the Conference Committee on Temperance, and were adopted unanimously with cheers. In his report Dr. Iglehart referred to Colonel Harvey, American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, as "an ass."

Dr. Iglehart declared in his report that the people of this country "have demanded that Uncle Sam take off his white apron and stop tending bar."

"We ask this conference to give its immediate practical attention to be the burial of the liquor corpse by making two requests," said Dr. Iglehart. "One is of Secretary Hughes, one of the greatest and best men of our time, that he call the attention of the British Government to the smuggling of liquor into our country, especially through the ports of Quebec and the British West Indies by ships flying the British flag, and that he ask that Government to cooperate with our own in hunting down and punishing these vile pirates, as great enemies to the British Government as to our own, and put an end to this assault on the constitutional laws and life of our Republic.

"It would be a beautiful thing for Secretary Hughes, who bound England and America so closely in the peace pact of the Pacific, to bind them still closer in the peace pact of the Atlantic, which would so promote the peace, prosperity and happiness of mankind.

"The other request is that our honored President, who is the head of all departments of the government and appoints their chiefs, recommend the use of the army and the navy and state departments, as well as those of justice, for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Here Dr. Iglehart looked up from his paper and used the term "ass" in describing Colonel Harvey. Returning to his report, he said:

"We deeply regret the words of Colonel Harvey, our Ambassador to England, in his speech on Washington's birthday in London in which he more than half sneered at our national prohibition and said that he preferred the English high license system to it. In contrast we praise the conduct of Marshal Foch, the greatest military figure of our age, who on reaching our shores said that though he had come from a wine-drinking country, he intended to be a total abstainer during his whole tour and that not a drop of intoxicating liquor should accompany his baggage—and the pledges were kept.

"We recommend Major Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition commissioner, for his fidelity and efficiency in the reorganization of his department in the firing of incompetents and traitorous agents and placing the administration of the law in the hands of friends rather than the enemies of the cause.

"We remind our people that the paramount importance of the elections this fall is to elect a Congress that stands against beer. We ask both political parties in New York to nominate for the United States Senate men who will pledge themselves openly against any weakening of the Volstead act and in favor of any legislation which may be found necessary to promote prohibition enforcement.

"We are proud of our great governor, Nathan L. Miller, who was elected on a law-enforcement platform and who kept his pledge to give the state an honest enforcement law. We rejoice at his success, including the miracle of driving out the saloon from the largest and wealthiest city of the world."

It was voted that the resolution about calling out the army and navy should be sent to President Harding, and that about the smuggling of liquor under the British flag to Secretary Hughes.

Earlier in the day the Rev. Dr. O. R. Miller of Albany, Secretary of the New York Civic League and a member of the conference, declared that if the Legislature would pass the Steinlee bill to require three days between the issuing of a marriage license and the performing of the ceremony it would "incidentally put $50,000 into the pockets of the pastors in New York city from fees."

Dr. Miller was taken to task for this statement by Bishop Anderson, the presiding officer, and he withdrew the statement, with the remark, "however, it is true."

"One of the most important moral measures before the last Legislature was the Steinlee bill," declared Dr. Miller. "In thousands of cases couples have taken a sudden notion to get married, rushed to the City Clerk, especially in New York city, obtained a license, gone to an adjoining room, and were quickly married by one of the assistant city clerks, who swiftly mumbled over a set of words without any impressiveness or reverence, and pronounced the couple man and wife, and they went out with no sense of the serious step which they had taken.

"If they had a little time to think it over after their marriage license is actually taken out and realize that they are entering into a solemn, serious contract, both parties would approach their wedding day with greater respect for the marriage state, and especially if they go to a clergyman or rabbi for the solemnizing of the ceremony rather than to some civil officer. The whole affair would thus mean very much more to them, and it would probably prevent altogether some very unwise marriages.

"Incidentally, too, brethren, the passage of this bill would put $50,000 a year into the pockets of the pastors," said Dr. Miller.

At once Bishop Anderson objected to this statement, and Dr. Miller answered:

"Well, bishop, I withdraw that statement, although it is true, because that is not why we worked for this bill. The reason was that we wish to throw greater dignity and sanctity around the marriage ceremony by having it performed by ministers.

"But Senator Burlingame, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, sat on the bill tight, and stubbornly refused to allow it to be reported out. We feel sure we will get it passed by the next legislature."

The conference passed a resolution presented by the Rev. Osmun P. Hoyt of Monticello, expressing the sincere hope that Governor Miller would sign the bill passed by the recent legislature for the strict regulation of billiard and pool rooms.

The conference adopted the following statement presented by the Rev. Dr. George W. Grinton, superintendent of the Kingston district, and signed by Bishop Anderson and all four district superintendents:

"In this hour, when orderly self-government is on trial, when the ability of a representative democracy to carry into effect the moral convictions of the majority of its citizenship is being tested it is intolerable that the American doctrine of freedom of speech and freedom of the press should, by many newspapers throughout the country, the most offensive one being published in New York city, be stretched and perverted into covering open warfare upon the sovereignty of the nation and conspiracy to defeat the constitution to an extent more aggravated and more serious in potential menace than the offenses for which various publications were ordered suspended during the war.

"Therefore, the New York annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church hereby respectfully requests the United States government, through the Department of Justice, to ascertain whether the efforts to nullify the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, and to bring into contempt and break down the statute without which the amendment will be of no effects to nullify the Eighteenth in New York and elsewhere, notably The New York World, and whether their incitement to violence against those who represent the churches in upholding what the Constitution declares, to be 'the supreme law of the land' does not in fact constitute a punishable offense against the peace, safety and good order of the nation; and, if so, we request the government to act accordingly."

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Wallace MacMullen, superintendent of the New York district, the conference endorsed the proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit sectarian appropriations and urged its immediate adoption. This memorial was addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur Thompson, pastor of Fordham Church, New York city, was elected treasurer of the conference, to succeed the Rev. Dr. George W. Rice, of Lake Mahopac, who withdrew after serving twenty-five years. A purse was presented to Dr. Rice in recognition of his faithful services.

Dr. Miller requested the conference to fight against permitting agricultural fairs, a usual feature of which, he said, was a "show" in which scantily clad women appeared in a tent to which only men were admitted.

GREEKS PROTEST TO HARDING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Athens, April 4.—The Asia Minor defence committee of Greece today addressed an appeal to President Harding protesting against the return of Smyrna to the Turkish Nationalists.

Smyrna had originally been awarded to Greece in the treaty of Sevres. Then the Turco-Greek war broke out. Finally in an effort to secure peace in the Near East, the Allied foreign ministers met at Paris and revised the Sevres treaty. Among the changes was the award of Smyrna to Turkey.

RUSSIA GOES TO GENOA TO "SWAP"

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, April 4.—Russia will insist upon complete recognition at the Genoa conference, according to a statement today by Vatslav Vorovsky, a member of the Russian delegation who is in Rome. In an exclusive interview with the International News Service, Vorovsky said:

"If the Allied governments decide at Genoa to enter Russia with credits they will have to recognize the soviet government.

"No one of us expects much from the Genoa conference, however. The most we can hope for is an arrangement for other conferences of trade experts for discussion of economic programs.

But to tell the truth, we are no longer worrying much about trade agreements because we are already trading with nearly every country in Europe.

"We do not expect much hostility from Italy in the Genoa conference and we believe that if Italy had only herself to consider, she would recognize the Moscow government, but Italy probably will have to follow the lead of her ally France.

"The whole matter will eventually resolve itself into the necessity of commercial arrangements between Russia and the governments of other nations. The solution is through a friendly entente through which credits and recognition of the Moscow government are extended in return for Russian concessions."

DEMOCRATS TURN SCALE IN RHODE ISLAND TOWN.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Burrellville, R. I., April 4.—Burrellville, one of the few towns in this state holding an election this year, has elected an entire Democratic ticket, it become known today when yesterday's voting was tabulated. This is almost a complete reverse of the election of 1920, when with one exception Republicans were elected town officers with pluralities averaging 800. The Democratic candidates were yesterday given pluralities averaging 500. Senator John J. McCabe, the only Democrat elected in 1920, was re-elected town clerk with a majority of 963, as compared to the scant margin of 18 in 1920. Out of a possible voting strength of 3,000, more than 2,800 appeared at the polls. The local textile wage and working hours controversy is regarded in a large degree responsible for the voting.

MUST HAVE BEEN.

Harvier May Know Politics But Not Oxen.

Colonel "Late" Gleason, for many years secretary of the Republican state committee and secretary of many Republican state conventions, has not forgotten his early training in Delaware county, and although it is a long time since Colonel Gleason has taken any active part in farming, he has not forgotten how farming is carried on.

Therefore, when Colonel Gleason read in The New York Times of Sunday a long political story by Ernest Harvier, a political writer who lives in New York, he was quick to appreciate the humor of the following serious statement from Harvier relative to the special election to be held on April 11 in the Thirty-seventh Congressional District of this state. Mr. Harvier said:

"In the good old days before prohibition the very rare special election was a gala event. Many a bibulous farmer drove in with the yoke of oxen and it sometimes happened that the trip home in the evening was made in an irregular zig-zag manner with the reins held in somewhat unsteady hands."

Commenting on the above quotation, Colonel "Lafe" writes:

"A farmer who used reins on oxen must have been bibulous to an almost inconceivable degree."

LLOYD-GEORGE'S FOES PERSEVERE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 4. Despite the big majority of 295 votes secured by Premier Lloyd-George in support of his Genoa program, the Tory "diehards" in the House of Commons announced today that they would renew their battle against the premier tomorrow night.

Led by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Bart., a coalition Unionist, a group of Tories secured the right to introduce a motion in Commons expressing a lack of confidence in the Lloyd-George government. Supporters of the premier predict that it will meet with overwhelming defeat.

Lloyd-George's speech outlining the objects of the Genoa conference was favorably received by the press and belief was expressed that if the program could be carried out, important steps would have been taken toward restoration.

In addition to the Lloyd-George speech there were two other important developments affecting the Genoa conference. Premier Poincare who has announced that he will not attend the conference, received a vote of confidence in the French chamber of deputies.

The Russian soviet delegation in Berlin conferred with the German government and is understood to have entered into an agreement for common action.

FORMER JUDGE KILLS ARMY FLYER

J. P. Day, Prominent Oklahoman, Shoots Commandant Beck of Flying Field—Believed to be Aftermath of Party in Day Home.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 4.—Lieutenant Colonel Paul Ward Beck, commandant of Post Field, Fort Sill, Okla., was shot and almost instantly killed here today at the home of J. P. Day, prominent Oklahoma financier and until recently a judge of the state supreme court.

Judge Day was being held following the shooting and it was said that a charge of murder would be formally filed against him.

The shooting according to police, came as the aftermath of a party held at Judge Day's home.

The judge, leaving Beck in the house, took some of his guests home in his automobile.

When he returned the shooting is alleged to have taken place.

According to the story given out at police headquarters Beck was coming down the stairway of the Day home when Day entered the house. Day called Beck into the living room and a few words passed between the two men.

Then, according to police, Day drew a revolver and shot Beck who died almost instantly.

"I didn't mean to shoot him. He was attacking my wife, and I struck him over the head with my gun. The shot was accidental."

This was the claim of Judge Day, according to officials here.

Lieutenant Colonel Beck is a well known military aviator. Day, in addition to being a former supreme court justice, is also president of a building material company and is vice president of the Continental Asphalt & Paving Company with headquarters here.

Washington, April 4.—Lieutenant Colonel Paul W. Beck, who was killed today in Oklahoma City, was first commissioned in the army in September, 1899, according to war department records. He served during the war as a colonel of infantry. His home was originally in Texas.

The body was found by police in the living room. Beck had been shot in the temple. The scalp was badly mutilated and torn from the skull. One deep wound was also found on the back part of the head on the right side and a small bruised spot was on the left cheek.

Day refused to comment on the shooting. He was being questioned by police, Mrs. Day, it was said, was nearly prostrated over the affair and no statement was obtained from her.

Lieut. Colonel Beck was one of the first four aviators in the United States army service.

A coroner's inquest will probably be held today, it was stated, at the sheriff's office.

ROTARY HELPS GIRL SCOUT CAMP

Kingston Rotarians, at their recent weekly luncheon, voted to guarantee $500 of the $1,500 necessary for the girls' camp at Ideal Park the coming summer. It being thought better for the club to make the guarantee as an organization than to spend the time soliciting individual members, as was done last year.

A fool proof fire alarm was demonstrated by Fire Commissioner Eltinge, and Assistant Chief Murphy gave a brief talk on the work of the fire department with especial reference to preventive measures. He called attention to the growth of the autobus business and the fact that the only exit from most of these vehicles was directly over the engine, where the danger of fire is greatest.

Lieutenant Moore, of the state police, spoke a few words of greeting and promised to come again and tell the Rotarians all about his specialty, which is the training of policemen.

The Rev. Dr. Bell, president of St. Stephen's College, made a brief and witty address, expressing his appreciation of Rotary luncheons which made him feel youthful because they gave him a chance to shout and sing once more.

Rotarian Schindler of New York city, head of a bureau of investigation which handles some of the biggest private detective cases, who said he hadn't come here to investigate anyone but just stopped in for luncheon as he was passing through town, spoke in praise of corned beef and cabbage, a diet that proved Kingston Rotarians were no weaklings, as with the exception of fried shoe pegs, there is no food that demands such perfect digestive apparatus. This was the 140th club Mr. Schindler had visited and for three years his attendance record has been 100 per cent.

With all this galaxy of talent, the regular luncheon hour was exceeded by only three minutes.

Although he had not come here to investigate, Mr. Schindler departed with one of the Kingston Rotarians in his custody—a member who was going to the Trenton conference and accepted an invitation to ride along as far as Hackensack.

DUBLIN NIGHT OF TERROR BLOODLESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, April 4.—Banks and public buildings were under heavy guard of Irish Free State troops today following a wild night of terror when the streets echoed with rifle fusillades and the bursting of bombs.

Although armed detachments of mutineers from the Irish Republican army were present there were no clashes between them and the Irish Free State troops. The Irish Free State troops fully expected to be attacked, but were ready to meet any assault.

Despite the wild firing of rifles and revolvers no casualties were reported.

Parts of the city were thrown into panic, the residents believing that the Republicans were attempting their long-heralded coup against the Irish provisional government and that civil war had broken out.

WEBBER TO RUN CITY HOME FARM

Succeeds Daniel Herb, Who Retires After 46 Years of Efficient Work in Charge of That Institution's Farm—Charity Board Met Monday at City Home.

Charles A. Webber has been appointed by the board of charity commissioners to have charge of the City Home farm on Flatbush avenue, succeeding Daniel Herb, who retires after forty-six years of efficient service in charge of the institution's farm. Mr. Herb's retirement was due to poor health and advancing years.

Last year the board decided to erect a six room cottage on the farm property. The cottage is now rapidly nearing completion and Mr. Webber will move into it with his family when it is completed some time in May.

William found a pocketbook
But the string jerked it back

It looked like a happy discovery as it lay there on the sidewalk—until the discoverer reached to pick it up. Then the hidden string jerked it away. All William got was disappointment.

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they came to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

The drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, is a nerve stimulant. Constant stimulation of the nerves often produces rebellion that takes the form of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, high blood pressure. That's the string to tea and coffee.

Postum, that wholesome and delightful cereal beverage, is completely satisfying and there's no harmful quality whatsoever, to jerk away the comfort which you find in this splendid table drink. Any member of the family may enjoy Postum with any meal—and there will be no after-regrets.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by grocers.

SUIT AND DRESS MODES OF TODAY

Effect of New Creations on Public to Determine Styles That Will Hold.

SKIRTS AND COATS TO MATCH

Waist Plays Important Part in Completing Milady's Wardrobe—New Type of Suit With the Abbreviated Jacket.

Quite fascinating are the latest showings at the dress shops. Everything, notes a fashion writer in the New York Times, is new and fresh and charged with vibrations of a promised springtime. And, in spite of the usual line, which is always confronting us where fashions are concerned, about there being no change to speak of, still there is every subtle difference to the lines of the silhouette and the character of all-important details.

The immediate concern of every woman is—what will be the first spring dresses and suits? What will the colors be? What materials are most fashionable and most wearable all in one combination? At how many inches from the floor will the skirts stop their downward trend? Will sleeves be much the same or changed in any way? And myriads more of questions along this general line.

The only thing to do, for one who attempts to give adequate answers to these questions, is to watch each new creation and its effect upon the public. So that just now there are a few fine points which have been registered with that force which indicates that they will be prominent. Further than that we cannot go just now.

There is a general feeling that the suit has gone out, or that it is not so much in fashionable favor as was the case sometimes in the past. That may or may not be so, but nevertheless there are any number of new and lovely-looking suits upon the market. Most of them (with the exception of the sport suits) are characterized by the fact that, instead of being made with skirt and blouse and coat, they are made with a dress in one piece and a coat to go with it.

Blouse Harmonizes With Skirt.

Sometimes there is a clever amalgamation of these two ideas, and the blouse is made to harmonize so perfectly with the skirt that the two together look, for all the world, like a one-piece frock. This latter combination has one big advantage over the old-fashioned idea of shirtwaist and skirt in that, when the waist wears out, there can be another one. And, since this is the portion of the dress which always shows the first signs of wear, there is more in the idea than might be at first visible.

But there are so many pitfalls in the direction of combining blouse and skirt that if one attempts that character of dressing one must be more than usually clever in constructing or choosing the design and in the manner in which one amalgamates the two. Not any blouse will do with any skirt, but the two of them have to be thought out together and arranged so that, when worn in unison, they will look as though they belonged together.

An interesting blouse shows a peculiar type of waist which does well when combined with a separate skirt and worn with a coat to match. In spite of the fact that the blouse is a unit in itself, it none the less has the quality of being able to blend with a skirt of some other material in a purely artistic manner. This blouse is made of yellow crepe chiffon, with many bunches of fullness about it and an underlying layer of a warmer yellow, to make it take on a richer tone.

It is designed to be worn with a full brown skirt of kasha cloth and a cape made of that material, and then the cape should be lined with the same colors of chiffon, posed one over the other, in order to carry out successfully the color scheme. The embroidered bands arranged on the blouse carry out those shadings of tones, running from brown to yellow, and, as the stitches are done in silk threads, there is a lustre which is charming against the thin chiffon and which does a great deal toward drawing together the color of the skirt and the colors in the blouse.

Doubles Life of the Costume.

For a woman who has to give her spring suit, or any suit for that matter, a great deal of wear, this manner of combining waist and skirt is a veritable boon, for it just about doubles the life of her costume and, when there is so much expense involved, that consideration becomes an important item.

The girdle for this blouse is made of a soft crepe in a shade of brown, midway between the yellow of the blouse and the brown of the skirt. Then it has a long fringe of all of the varicolored threads used in the embroidery on the trimming of the blouse, which also serves to tie the two separate parts of the costume into one single unit.

This type of blouse for the costume suit is far more beautiful and fashionable than the old and accepted variety of white shirtwaist. In fact, the latter seems to have disappeared entirely off the face of the earth, except in its tailored state for sport suits and as a handmade French thing to go with the regulation tailored suit.

A suit is the thing which, in the spring, makes a woman look so well groomed and compact in style and so ready for any outdoor or street occasion. Women are loath to let it go as a type of dressing and, even though its character has been somewhat changed and twisted around, it is still the suit that has meant so much to the general well-dressed appearance of the American woman.

There is a new type of suit, with the very much abbreviated jacket, and a little vest that adds a touch of color in a new and original way. It is a relief to see suits getting away from that collar and cuff trimming which, after all, is so obvious. And this little waistcoat creates a freshness of feeling which will be a relief to many women who long to wear this sort of suit and still insist upon having their clothes in the fore ranks of fashion.

Loosest Sort of Homespun Weave.

Wool etamine is the material used for this suit. It is the loosest sort of homespun weave, and it also has about it a wiriness of character that makes it take very interesting lines, when developed either in the little spring suit or in a coat dress meant to be worn on the street. It is a fabric which is a little more dressy than the woolen homespun which is going into the sport suits, and yet its weave is so much like that of homespun that it keeps the fabric in the class of popularly accepted materials.

Following the craze for the long waistline that is bloused, many of the spring suits, especially those that are sent from Paris, show that long, bloused, Russian line with a very short, flaring peplum and a high, standing collar. It is an informal sort of suit, but one that is extremely youthful in its appearance and which, for that reason, is bound to exert a strong influence upon spring styles. With it the high, close-fitting Russian turban is the thing, and the whole makes an interesting silhouette which is new in every way.

Black has been so predominant among the winter street fashions, and we have become so accustomed to seeing it used in combination with gray and cream and tan, that it is hard to realize that it will ever go out as a universal fashion. However, there are strong rumors that midnight blue for street wear this spring will take the lead against this established supremacy of black. There will be many to welcome the advent of this old, tried and true color. Most women have the dark blue habit so strongly established in their systems that they cannot face the possibility of wearing any other color. In fact they cannot seem to feel at home in black, smart as it may be. Blue, when it is becoming, carries with it much charm and character, though when it is not exactly the right tone for the personality in question, there can be no other color more insignificant looking and more ineffectual as a fashionable thing.

IDEAL PARK.

Ideal Park, April 3.—Reese Smith of Phoenicia has purchased from N. B. Van Wagoner the farm adjoining Ideal Park, known as the D. M. Hoyt farm. Mr. Smith takes possession this week. We are glad to welcome Mr. Smith as a new neighbor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Riley of Brooklyn will arrive in Ideal Park this week and will occupy their cottage for a few days.

E. E. Matthews and son, Hilton, of Kingston are occupying their bungalow here during the week, returning to Kingston over the week ends. Mr. Matthews being an expert with the rod and an angler of note, believes that one man on the stream is worth ten in the city.

William Van Etten of Kingston spent last Sunday afternoon at his bungalow here.

A delightful birthday party in honor of their daughter Mabelle's sixteenth birthday was given by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DeVall at their home in Ideal Park Friday evening, March 31, and although a very stormy night a large number of friends were present. Dancing, games, music, etc., were indulged in until midnight, when dainty refreshments were served, not forgetting the large birthday cake with its sixteen candles. At one minute after 12 an amusing incident occurred, the perpetrators of which were Ernest Gardner and George Lane. George called Ernest to look at the big deer out by the large light on the lawn. Of course, all rushed out on the porch to see the deer, not for a moment thinking that it was April 1st. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gardner, the Misses Grace and Bertha Randall, Miss Dolores Lane, Miss Fannie Gardner, Miss Delta Gardner, Miss Pearl Carter, Matthew Hasbrouck, Burton Lane, Berton Gardner, Ernest Gardner, George Lane, Joseph Broekema, Mr. Zanner, Mr. Molloy and others.

MILTON.

Milton, April 3.—Large quantities of carnations and snap dragons are being shipped daily to the New York markets by our local florist P. A. Lyons.

The Rev. J. W. Leadbeater pastor of the Methodist church, attended the annual M. E. conference in Poughkeepsie last week.

There is plenty of work in this village for the W. C. T. U., Anti-Saloon League and Allied Citizens' organizations to do judging from instances which occurred during the past week.

Last Tuesday evening a meeting of the Men's Club was held at the Community House. The usual picture and refreshment program was given after which dancing was enjoyed. Music was furnished by a Victrola.

The Maids' and Matrons' Club are planning to stage a home talent play in the near future.

G. R. Wilson, our local electrician, has moved his office from the Community House to his residence on Church street.

The making of apple barrels has begun in the Fruit Exchange barrel factory, near the W. S. R. R. station.

Mrs. Henry Wilke, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hallock, has returned to her home at Germantown, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Tuckerman have returned from a sojourn in California.

P. V. Bunker has taken the agency for the Essex automobile.

HURLEY.

Hurley, April 3.—The women of Hurley Church will give a roast beef supper on Wednesday evening, April 5, at 50 cents a plate. The bill of fare besides the chief number will have a full variety of all that goes to make a complete and satisfying meal, so that it will be thoroughly enjoyed by all. The reputation of Hurley cooking for excellence is such that it needs no description here. The newly enlarged kitchen will make not only the preparation of the meal an easy matter but it will also render the serving of the same a most acceptable one to the people at the tables. A good attendance is expected and provided for. Supper will be served from 6 to 8.

The Pollyanna class of the Sunday school, a class of the younger girls taught by Mrs. French, will give a cute little playlet, "Answering the Phone," on Friday evening, April 7, at 7:30 o'clock. In addition there will be also a mixed program of good things which will be sure to please, with cake and ice cream for sale during the social hour.

Well Answered.

A young man once said to Wendell Phillips: "If I had lived in your day I should have been heroic, too." "You, sir," said the great man, "are living in time and in God's time and be sure of this, young man, no man could have been heroic then who cannot be so now."

Don't Be Afraid.

We never knew of a man catching cold from leaving off his bad habits.—Boston Transcript.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 4, 1922.

Commissioner Sisson is one of the busiest men in the State service today. He is anxious to get work started on the highways as soon as possible. The commissioner cannot regulate the weather, but his purpose is to have everything ready so that the minute the time arrives so that work can be started in different sections there will be no delay on the part of the highway commission. The commissioner says, "Give us the weather and we will give you the roads." The report of the department shows that something was accomplished last year and the commissioner is ambitious to beat it a little this year.

THE TURK TRIUMPHANT.

When the Turks protested against the terms of the treaty of Sevres they were stoutly informed that the Allies might be "driven to reconsider the arrangement by ejecting the Turks from Europe once for all." But since then the Allies have made concessions and now the treaty of Sevres is being radically revised, restoring Constantinople and even an increased territory in Europe to the Ottoman empire. Only Greece loses territory, but all the Allies lose in prestige and the long-cherished desire of Christendom is sacrificed.

This humiliating backdown is said to be partly due to fears of a "holy war" joined in by all Islam. The Turks are good fighters and it is feared that they can marshal to their aid the hosts of fanatical Islam in both Asia and Africa if the "holy places" are not restored. A general uprising would involve India, and so the British especially are ready to compromise, empire-holding England's troubles being very many in these times. But when the "unspeakable Turk" has returned in triumph to Europe England may find that, instead of checking, such a backdown may encourage a general Moslem uprising involving even India.

EQUITY DEMANDS CLEAN HANDS.

The plea for a general amnesty for what are called political prisoners will not gain much strength from an inspection of the list of persons who are advocating it. Among those who appeared before a Congressional Committee recently in favor of the adoption of a resolution by Congress urging President Harding to give favorable consideration to a plea for a general pardon was Henry Weinberg, a lawyer who was at one time counsel for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the draft dodger from Philadelphia. Bergdoll was one of those who had been convicted but by some chicanery which has never been fully explained was enabled to escape from the custody of army officials and is still enjoying his liberty in Germany. Weinberg, on a cross-examination before the committee declared that he would express his opinion on political and economic questions at any time and in any place despite the Supreme Court of the United States. If that were the only offense of men who have been convicted under the espionage act they would never have been haled before a court of justice.

The so-called political prisoners were not convicted for expressing their opinions on political and economic questions. They were convicted for interfering with the prosecution of the war or for giving aid and comfort to our national enemies.

The author of the resolution was Representative London, Socialist of New York. At the hearing before the Congressional Committee Mr. London declared that he would free men convicted of violence if they did so because of a deep religious feeling. If that theory of the administration of our criminal laws should be adopted Booth and Guiteau would have escaped punishment if they had put up the plea that they assassinated Presidents of the United States under the impulse of deep religious feeling. Under our conscription laws no man was required to bear arms if he could show that he had religious convictions against war. Many men undertook to take advantage of the provisions of that law notwithstanding they had never theretofore shown any religious convictions on war or any other subject. The only complaint that was heard of the administration of the conscientious objection provision of the law was that the War Department construed it too liberally and permitted many persons to escape their obligations under the conscription act.

The fact that the war is now over is cited by some as a reason why the offenders under the espionage law should be given their freedom. The fallacy of such a plea as that is readily apparent. The war was won not through their efforts but in spite of their opposition. If it was ever proper to deprive them of their freedom it would certainly be improper now to let them enjoy the fruits of a victory in which they had no part but which they tried to prevent.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any question of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. To what age does the ordinary domestic goose live?
2. How do toads shed their tails?
3. Does a cow have anything in her mouth when chewing her cud?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. If minnows are caught by accident in fishing, should they be killed?

By no means. They live on the wrigglers of mosquitoes and are useful checks on this pest. Gold fishes, sunfishes and sticklebacks also eat wrigglers and are valuable in ponds that cannot be coated with oil to check the insect.

2. What variety of trees grows tallest?

Probably the sequoias, the sempervirens, or redwood, and the Wellingtonia, or "big tree" take the prize for stature. Specimens of the former are known 340 feet high or the latter 320 feet. These trees are now found only in a small area. The tall tree of lumber possibilities is the Douglas spruce of the northwest coast region. Also called red fir.

3. Can wild geese or any wild bird flying south for the winter become lost, especially on a clear day? We noticed some that wandered around and acted lost.

Possibly the leader had been shot, and the flock was temporarily confused and disorganized. But seeing wild geese not in the common wedge-shape flock is not a proof they have lost their leader, as they sometimes fly in more straggling formation. In fog or storm they are likely to lose their way and wander somewhat.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

BOWLERS ENJOY ANNUAL BANQUET

Mercantile Bowling League Closes Season at "Y" Monday Evening With a High Individual Rating Average—Members Are Dined, They Sing and Orate and Are Entertained.

The bowling season of 1921-22 of the Mercantile Bowling League was brought to a successful close Monday evening with the annual banquet at the Y. M. C. A., and all of the boys rolled a very high individual average in the eating line, scored a strike in oratory, and had a general all around good time. At the close of the eating and orating the bowlers were entertained by Happy Harry Hayden, a professional entertainer from New York.

The banquet Monday was called for 7 o'clock, and the members of the league gathered shortly before that time at the Association bringing their appetites with them. The tables were laid in the banqueting hall on the second floor, and the banquet was served by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the "Y" in faultless style.

The table decorations were very artistic. At the speakers' table were arranged a set of bowling pins and balls, and also the handsome prizes that were to be awarded later on in the evening. The favors were carnations. The following fine menu was served:

Olives Saltines Celery
Blue Point Oyster on Half Shell
Roast Lamb
Mint Sauce
Green Peas Mashed Potatoes
Compote of Peach
Rolls Lettuce Salad
Neapolitan Ice Cream
Cake Coffee
Smokes

At the close of the "feed" Physical Director R. H. Begg took a hand in the evening's entertainment and led the boys in some community singing that could be heard a considerable distance from the Association building, even though the windows were closed.

President Harry Heard of the league then introduced John W. Matthews of the Matthews team in the league, who presided wittily as toastmaster and called upon Addison D. Pardee, Charley Snyder, John Cleveland, Dick Marchant, John Spader, Physical Director Begg, Secretary Safford and others for brief remarks.

Frank W. Thompson, chairman of the athletic committee at the Y. M. C. A., was then introduced and presented the medals to the prize winners. Bernard W. Healy of the F. W. Matthews Company team made the individual high single score of the season with a roll of 220 pins; Snyder of the National Ulster County Bank made the individual high triple score of 557 pins; Lasher of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company made the individual high average of 175 pins, and they were called to the front and presented with artistic medals.

Snyder of the bank was again called forward to receive the handsome silver loving cup which was awarded to the National Ulster County Bank team who closed the season in first place with .727 per cent, having won 24 and lost 9 games. The members of the winning team were Snyder, Brenn and Port and all three received medals.

Then the remainder of the evening was turned over to Mr. Hayden who "tickled the ivories" on the piano, sang a little, talked a little and closed with some stunts in magic. Mr. Hayden was very clever and kept the banqueters amused for over an hour.

It was a late hour when the curtain was finally rung down on the 1921-22 bowling season and all parted looking forward to another successful season.

The officers of the league are: President, Harry Heard; vice president, Harry L. Kirchner; secretary, John Cleveland.

At each plate at the banqueting table was placed a souvenir booklet which contained the menu, program of the evening's entertainment and on the back the league standing and the individual averages of the players in the league. These figures were printed in The Freeman at the time the last match was rolled.

The Apostle of Health

"Send Us a Shipload of American Plumbers"

That was the first message relayed to the States by our American Red Cross mission to typhus-stricken Armenia.

These trained relief workers knew and acknowledged a fact that is too often driven from the public mind by ignorance or baseless prejudice.

The service of the plumber to the community ranks alongside that of the physician.

Good plumbing and hygienic heating is even more protection to the health of the household than the walls and the roof of the house.

Good plumbing and heating work is the kind we do.

She could eat anything
—without indigestion or sleeplessness

For a time she had been troubled with gas after her evening meal. The distress was most painful after eating potatoes or other starchy foods, of which she was very fond.

Then she started taking two cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every night between her evening meal and bedtime. She poured about a half cup of boiling hot water over the yeast cakes, stirred them thoroughly, added a little cold water and drank.

She found she could eat anything and sleep splendidly afterward.

Thousands of men and women are finding that Fleischmann's Yeast corrects stomach and intestinal troubles. It promotes the flow of bile and pancreatic juice. Appetite is always kept normal and you are protected against indigestion.

Add 2 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your daily diet. You will find that your whole digestive system is greatly benefited. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast.

Alkali in Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

TWELVE YEARS OF SCOUTING

In a recent issue of the Survey, Chief Scout Executive West writes of his twelve years' experience as a leader of boys. Among other things, he mentioned the fact that what seems most remarkable in scouting is the responsiveness of the boys themselves, their power and willingness to assume responsibility and to live up to the obligations of the scout oath and law.

"When we said that a first-class scout must know what to do in case of fire," he writes, "probably none of us remotely imagined that during one year 5,778 scouts would qualify in firemanship; that in fifty or more cities scout troops would be regularly authorized aides to the local fire departments; that in one state alone—Pennsylvania—scouts would be cited for having in less than a year saved from destruction by fire over a million dollars' worth of valuable timber. Nor could we in any way have visualized the large number of striking individual instances where scouts or groups of scouts have risen voluntarily to meet the emergency of the hour in fighting fire, rescuing persons from burning buildings, rendering first aid to persons overcome by fumes of smoke, besides their signal services in helping prevent fire by conducting city cleanups, distributing fire-prevention literature and reporting fire hazards and violations of fire laws.

"I want particularly to stress that word co-operatife; for, contrary to the ideas of those who do not fully comprehend scouting and its motives, the movement is dedicated to co-operation with all other forces working for public betterment. It has no wish to supersede the work of church, or school, or home, or of any social service agency. It merely places its splendid boy program, its organized and trained power for service, its large and enthusiastic active membership, at the disposal of the community and the nation, to help wherever help is needed or desired.

"We have learned in our twelve years of experience with boys that there is no 'boy problem,' that terrible bugaboo which has frightened the world so long. Our boys, given half a chance, will, in nine cases out of ten, rise to whatever we expect of them; nay, go beyond what we expect of them, if only we men will in turn do our duty—provide for them the opportunity for clean, happy, useful, healthy life, which is their birthright as young Americans."

THE TEN-YEAR MEN IN SCOUTING

National council officers who have served the movement consecutively at least for ten years are President Colin H. Livingstone of Washington, Chief Justice Taft, honorary vice president; Daniel Carter Beard, author, artist, outdoor man and boy worker, who is a vice president of the organization as well as its scout commissioner and chairman of the national court of honor; Vice Presidents Mortimer L. Schiff of New York, Benjamin Dulaney of Bristol, Tenn., and Milton A. McRae of Detroit and San Diego; George D. Pratt of Brooklyn, treasurer; John Sherman Hoyt, Jeremiah W. Jenks and Frank Presbrey of the executive board, and James W. An old lady saw two boys fighting in the street. She went up to the bigger of the two and cried: "You wicked boy, you will kill him." "I don't care," answered the boy. "I've got another at home."

TELLS HOW TO RUN A FURNACE

United States Bureau of Mines Gives Some Pointers.

KEEP FIRE BOX FILLED UP

In Process of Combustion Two Quantities Must Be Supplied, Coal and Air; the First One Pays For, the Other Is Free—Matter of Keeping a Fire Overnight Is Merely Question of Supplying the Right Amount of Air.

Advice to operators of house heating furnaces, who under the keen urge of chill blasts of winter have applied to the bureau of mines for a solution of difficulties experienced in caring for fires over night, is given in a statement by O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the bureau.

There are several ways of managing a furnace as there are several ways of driving a horse, says Mr. Hood. The general principle is quite obvious, but that principle can be applied in different ways. In the process of combustion two quantities must be supplied—coal and air. The coal one pays for, the air one gets for nothing, but the quantity of air required in weight is from 12 to 20 times as much as the quantity of coal required. If one had to pay for air he would pay a great deal more attention to the supply of this necessary material, Mr. Hood says.

Keeping a Fire Over Night.

Given a bed of coals that are red hot, the fire will burn just in proportion as air is fed through the fuel bed. The matter of keeping a fire over night, Mr. Hood asserts, is made easy by having a bed of fuel large enough so that at least the center of it can keep red hot without being chilled by the cold sides of the furnace or the cold ashpit below. If absolutely no air was fed through the fuel bed the fire would in time go out because of loss of heat. The problem, then, is to feed just air enough through the fuel bed to maintain temperature.

The ashpit of most furnaces leaks enough air so that if there is a considerable draft or suction above the fuel bed produced by the chimney more air will leak into the ashpit and up through the fuel bed than is needed to simply maintain the temperature, Mr. Hood explains. Too much air feed through the fire would burn up the coal and the fire would not keep.

The problem then is to cut down the flow of air through the fuel bed. This can be done in numerous ways: one can put on a large amount of coal and cover the top with very fine coal, or even with ashes. This increases the resistance through the fuel bed, so that only a small amount of air flows. Another way, and a good way, too, according to Mr. Hood, is to allow ashes to accumulate on the grate to add to the resistance of the flow of air.

Keep Fire Box Filled.

While this is a good way in mild weather, it is not so good in severe weather, because one cannot get as much coal into the fire box and it is usually best to keep the fire box completely filled with fuel. Even when the resistance through the fuel bed is increased, if the draft is maintained there is apt to be too much leakage through the ashpit and too vigorous a fire. By opening the check draft so that air can flow up the chimney without flowing through the fuel bed, the air passing through the fuel bed is greatly reduced. It makes little difference whether this is done by opening the check draft in the chimney or by opening the damper in the door, allowing the air to flow above the fuel bed. In the latter case, however, the air is drawn through the boiler and helps to cool off the boiler in addition to checking the flow of air through the fuel bed.

MYSTERY CHEST OPEN

Was Left to Bell by an Uncle Years Ago and Remained Closed.

In 1885 Edward Bell's uncle bequeathed him a 600-pound brass-bound chest. It was brought from the gold fields of the West and had reposed in Bell's home at Defiance, O., for thirty-seven years.

Bell had steadfastly refused to open the chest. This week John Karns was appointed guardian for Bell and was authorized by the court to open it.

With the court room packed by curious spectators, Probate Judge C. W. Palmer broke open the chest with a huge sledgehammer. In it were found three musty vests, a bundle of patent medicine recipes, several pictures of women, some old love letters and a photo of "Buffalo Bill."

The chest had been the talk of the town for months.

SHORT-TAILED SHREWS

"I've always been so glad," said Mr. Short-Tailed Shrew, "that my name was so different from the names of other creatures.

"It wouldn't be nearly so interesting to be named anything else as it is to be known as a short-tailed shrew. There is something so unusual and attractive about the name.

"Don't you think so too?"

"I agree with you, but then of course I would agree with you naturally, as my name is the same," said Mrs. Short-Tailed Shrew.

"We're not very sociable as a rule, but you and I are pretty sociable at present," Mr. Short-Tailed Shrew continued.

"Do you know I wonder if people know how helpful we are to them?" asked Mrs. Short-Tailed Shrew.

"I am sure I don't know," said Mr. Short-Tailed Shrew. "Why do you ask?"

"Well, I hope that they do, and I hope they will learn it more and more, or rather that more and more people will learn that the little short-tailed shrew or mole shrew as he is sometimes known does everything he can to help people.

"He eats insects and bugs which are harmful and is never anything but nice in his actions.

"He has a great deal of courage, and though he can hardly see at all he will fight bravely if he has to, even if he can't see the enemy who is attacking him.

"Of course his sense of smell is very keen and strong and he can rush this way and that by feeling and by smell.

"Others by screams."

"He can see light from dark, but he hasn't much to boast of in the way of eyesight or eyes.

"Some of us are fond of living in the forests, others by streams, others again by fields. We're not in the least fussy.

"We burrow in the ground and have fine runways where we go from place to place.

"Our homes are beautiful with a number of rooms papered and carpeted by soft grass and leaves.

"We eat more in a day than we weigh. That is if anyone weighed the amount of food we ate in a day they would find that we were much smaller in size than the quantity of food we had eaten.

"But it doesn't hurt us for we are so active, always so busy. We do not even rest and sleep in the winter the way some creatures do.

"That is, I mean we do not go to sleep for the winter.

"We have very keen sense of hearing. "Oh, yes, we can hear very well.

"But I must say I have no use for creatures who eat all the time and who are lazy. We must eat a lot in order to have the strength to do so much.

"And we must do a lot in order to be able to eat a lot! I don't like to hear of creatures who eat and eat and eat and who then feel too lazy to do anything. That is dreadful

"We can protect ourselves by our bravery and also by our musk glands which have a curious odor to them which the other animals do not like, we are thankful to say.

"We can squeak and cry and we can become very angry. But we're not dreadful little creatures at all, and I do wish people would hear that we are not."

"Perhaps they will," said Mr. Short-Tailed Shrew. "And perhaps the next time they see a little dark animal which looks something like a mole they will say:

"'There is a nice short-tailed shrew. We will not harm him.'"

"Oh that would be pleasant indeed," said Mrs. Short-Tailed Shrew. "Well, I believe we have talked enough. I have plenty to do and then I don't bother much about being sociable and talking my time away."

"Neither do I," said Mr. Short-Tailed Shrew as he wiggled his snout, which was his way of saying a polite good-by to Mrs. Short-Tailed Shrew.

Horse's Perilous Trip.

City Point, Belfast, Me., was recently electrified by a regular circus feat when Robin, a chestnut horse owned by Fred A. Holmes, attached to a heavy rack used for hauling barrels, crossed the long open single trestle of the railroad bridge. The driver was taken sick as the team approached the bridge, and the horse, accepting the path as a part of the day's work, carefully placing his feet on the ice-covered stringers, crossed over to solid ground.—Boston Globe.

"I can teach sugar to slip down your throat a thousand ways."

A FEW DESSERTS

Do you enjoy the old fashioned cottage pudding, as many do? This is a good one: Take a tablespoonful of softened butter, one cupful of sugar, one well-beaten egg, a little salt and a grating of nutmeg, one-half cupful of milk with flour to make a soft cake batter—about one and one-half cupfuls—and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat well and bake in a shallow pan. Cut in squares or rounds and serve with:

Vinegar Sauce.—Take one-half cupful of sugar, mix well with a tablespoonful of flour add one-half cupful of boiling water and cook until the flour is well cooked. Add one-half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one tablespoonful of butter. Serve both cake and sauce hot.

Pear and Jam Dessert.—Cut small circles from stale sponge cake. Pour over some of the syrup from a can of pears, arrange halves of pears on the cake, sprinkle with a bit of grated lemon rind and cover with raspberry jam and stick thickly with blanched and quartered almonds which have been slightly toasted in salted butter. Serve with a syrup, using the canned pear juice; slightly thicken, and flavor with grated lemon rind.

Cranberry Punch.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of seeded raisins, cover with two cupfuls of boiling water and simmer one-half hour. Wash three cupfuls of cranberries and add to the drained raisin liquor; boil ten minutes, force through a sieve. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a pinch of salt. Freeze to a mush.

Orange Pie.—Bake a rich, pastry shell. Cool and fill with oranges that have been sliced and allowed to stand covered with sugar. Heap the sugared fruit into the shell top with whipped cream and serve. Or a meringue cooked in hot water may be heaped over the top.

Rhubarb Pudding.—Spread bread with butter on both sides, cut in small sized pieces, arrange in a buttered baking dish, add a cupful of dried fresh rhubarb and sugar to sweeten. Add a small amount of water and bake until the mixture is well cooked. Serve with a hard sauce.

PASSOVER WEEK OF JEWS BEGINS APRIL 12.

The Feast of Unleavened Bread, otherwise known as Passover, begins this year on Wednesday, April 12, and will be observed by all Jewish people for a period of seven or eight days, according to their interpretation of the Biblical injunction in Exodus 23.14.

During the Passover week all Jewish families abstain from eating leaven in any form and in its stead use the Malzoth, concluding the festival on April 19th.

The first and last days are days of holy convocation. That is, services are held on these days in the synagogues. The evening of the first day is Passover is particularly important.

This evening is known in Jewish circles as "Seder Night." Its intent is to unite members of a household about the festive board and there read together the ritual compiled for the occasion and known as the "Haggadah." This liturgical composition recites the chief events of the Exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt and with many a quaint song and story revives memories of hardship in ancient days from which the people of Israel were delivered by a strong hand and an outstretched arm.

Errata.

Two singularly inept errors occurred in the account of the catechumens' examination at the Spring Street Lutheran Church printed in Monday's Freeman. In the thirteenth line the word "strongly" should have appeared instead of "strangely" and in the fortieth line "persons" instead of "pastors."

All the refreshments were easily disposed of and the amount taken was $21.50, which was not so small a sum for such an unpleasant evening. The president of the league, J. P. Ganoung, wishes to thank all who in any way helped to make the occasion a pleasant and profitable one.

SAYS FIRE DEPARTMENT NEEDS ANOTHER PUMPER

Editor, The Freeman

That the Kingston fire department needs a second automobile pumper to properly equip the department was clearly shown Friday evening during the fire which razed the Oriental Hotel and pavilion at Kingston Point. At present there is in the city but one pumper for use in pumping water when the water pressure is low or in case of a fire along the water front or on the high points where the pressure is low. When the present pumper is engaged at a fire, if a second fire should break out, the present equipment is not sufficient and in case some accident should happen to the present pumper the city would be without means of forcing water should the gravity system fail to provide sufficient pressure. A second pump should be ready in case of emergency and could be stationed at one of the other fire houses in the lower section of the city.

While going to the fire at Kingston Point Friday evening the pumper threw a tire at Delaware and Second avenues but was able to proceed to the Point where it was placed in commission and did good work in throwing streams pumped from the river on the burning structure. However when an attempt was made to run the machine after the fire it was found that the heavy machine was fast in the mud and could not be moved under its own power. Had a second fire broken out then there would have been no way to throw a high pressure stream.

The matter of securing a second pumper should be seriously considered by the Board of Fire Commissioners in order that the fire department be kept up to the highest point of efficiency.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, will give you permanent relief from constipation if it is eaten regularly. Every member of your family should eat Kellogg's Bran every day. The consistent use of bran throughout the nation would eliminate nine-tenths of all sickness which can be blamed on constipation. Children grow strong and robust through eating Kellogg's Bran regularly. Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic sufferers should eat as much as necessary.

Physicians have long recognized the wonderful properties of bran and your physician will indorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation. We guarantee that it will give permanent relief to the most stubborn cases if it is used regularly. Results will astound you! You will also find that Kellogg's Bran will clear pimply complexions and sweeten disagreeable breaths.

You should know Kellogg's Bran as a nature food. It is one of the most delicious cereals you ever ate. Do not confuse it with "remedies" such as pills or cathartics which never can and never will give permanent relief from constipation. Kellogg's Bran is nature's corrector. It acts as a sweeper, cleansing and purifying and regulating, whereas pills and cathartics can give but temporary action at best. Bran never irritates or makes you uncomfortable.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, is used in thousands of homes in many kinds of foods as well as a cereal. It makes the best pancakes you ever ate. Use it in raisin bread muffins, macaroons, gravies or in many other cooking ways. Your grocer has it.

WILL DISCUSS PARK PROGRAM

The park committee of the board of public works will hold a special meeting this evening to talk over the park and playground activities to be taken up this summer. The board of public works expect to operate the three city parks, Forsyth Park, Hasbrouck Park and Canfield Park, this summer but not on as an elaborate a scale as in other seasons.

It is expected that playground activities will be carried on at the parks this summer for the children, but there will not be as large a corps of instructors. From the committees of women and other citizens who have waited on the members of the board it is understood that while they favor supervised playground instruction yet the general opinion was that it was not necessary to have the number of playground experts that were employed the past few seasons.

FIRE DAMAGES STEAMER MONGOLIA

As Army Transport She Fired First Shot For U. S. and Hit German Submarine—Now Being Made Into Passenger Ship.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 4. Fire which swept the refrigerating plant of the former United States army transport Mongolia in a Hoboken, N. J. drydock was extinguished this afternoon. Hundreds of workmen were engaged in converting the transport into a peace time passenger ship but all managed to escape from the vessel which was quickly enveloped in a dense cloud of smoke.

The blaze was just aft the engine room and the firemen concentrated their efforts to prevent the flames from spreading into the tanks containing 175,000 gallons of oil just beneath the refrigerating plant. Four fireboats aided the firemen in fighting the blaze.

Mainly because a shot fired from aboard the ship which knocked away the periscope of the first German warship to feel the sting of American fire, damaged the upper part of the conning tower and killed the commander, the Mongolia's name rang in the early annals of the war. On that occasion she was operated by the Atlantic Transport line and was in command of Captain Emery Rice. Later she was operated by the International Mercantile Marine Company.

The attack occurred at 5:20 a. m., ten miles south of South Foreland, in the English Channel and the initial efforts of American gunners on board sped true to the mark. The German underseas commander, who was on the deck of his boat, was killed.

The ship has a tonnage of 14,650. The fire is believed to have been caused from a spark from an acetylene burner falling into a pile of debris.

DIVISION AMONG TEXTILE STRIKERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lawrence, Mass., April 4.—Widening of the split between the United Textile Workers and the One Big Union and the report that the state board of arbitration may soon act in an effort to bring about settlement through arbitration, were the chief developments in the local textile strike today.

It is known that members of the state board who visited Lowell and Lawrence, are today making reports which may be the foundation for an early attempt at conciliation. Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, is expected to confer with the board at Boston today and while it is understood Ben Legere, leader of the One Big Union, was invited, he has announced his intention to remain here and address a mass meeting on the Common.

Legere said today he was organizing an ex-service men's battalion within his main organization. He said the members have petitioned for the use of the Amesbury Street State Armory for use tomorrow night for a large mass meeting.

Continuing his arraignment of McMahon, Legere today called him the "man who has aspirations to be the kaiser of the labor movement." He also extended his attack to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. He said that if necessary, he would go into the history of Gompers's organization. The police were today searching for twelve men said to have been brought here as trouble-makers from Dover, N. H.

SENATOR CARAWAY SCORES HARDING FOR DISMISSALS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 4. Charging President Harding with an "open disregard for the law," Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, today renewed in the senate his criticism of the president's order summarily dismissing the director and other officials of the bureau of engraving and printing.

"The president may apologize in his own heart for other shortcomings of his administration, but he cannot justify this act," Caraway declared. "No man with kindness in his heart can read this dismissal order without knowing it is a cruel order, no man with a knowledge of the law can read without knowing it is a violation of the law."

LASKER ADMITS SHIP BOARD LOSS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 4. In addition to rolling up an annual deficit of $50,000,00 government operation of the American merchant marine is defeating its own purpose by "driving from the seas" the private operators who should eventually become the owner of the government's vessels, A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board today told a joint congressional committee in urging adoption of President Harding's ship subsidy plan.

"Fifty million dollars annually it is costing the government, to keep the Shipping Board going," Lasker declared. "And it is a deception to the American people to represent that the Shipping Board is losing but $50,000,000 annually when that fifty millions is lost in operation only and does not consider capital invested."

Lasker said that this big loss was incurred through the operation of 421 ships. He defended the loss however, on the ground that American shippers were getting their goods transported throughout the world. While admitting that foreign ships carried 71 percent of American exports in 1921, Lasker said that the goal of the Shipping Board was for at least fifty percent of American foreign trade to be carried in American ships privately operated.

BULLS RUN WILD ON STOCK MARKET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 4. Excited trading, in some respects similar to the wild dealings during the bull market of 1919, continued to be a feature of stock market transactions today. In a number of issues, price movements were somewhat violent but the general list displayed a regularly strong tone. Many stocks again went through their high marks of yesterday when 75 issues touched new high figures for the year. The advances generally ranged from fractions to about five points.

Up to the 2 o'clock in the afternoon approximately 1,125,000 shares of stocks had been dealt in. In the first half hour's trading, 260,000 shares had been dealt in.

There were a number of reasons for the improvement. The advance was generally believed a recognition of the better industrial situation. Developments today were constructive, including a very favorable statement from President Erskine of the Studebaker Company and a denial by Charles Schwab that the Bethlehem Steel dividend would be reduced.

Studebaker was the most active issue traded in touching a new high for the year above 119. Among other stocks which made new high marks for the year were U. S. Steel common, Marine common and preferred, Royal Dutch, Allied Chemical, General Motors, Baldwin and Vanadium.

The market closed steady; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

The wholesale market also received about 2,500 packages of vegetables from Cuba, principally green peppers and egg plants. The first small shipment of muskmelons from Venezuela in addition to about 200 watermelons arrived yesterday.

Only one carload of state onions, reds, No. 1 stock, was received today. They sold at $9.50 per hundred pound bag. A carload of upstate Rutabaga turnips was on the market but no sales were reported.

The Palm Crab.

The Palm crab, of the Indian ocean, is famous for its strength. He lives in coconut groves, where he digs holes beneath the trees and hides. He is very fond of coconuts. He tears the husk from the nuts, with his powerful claws, and uses this husk to line his bed. He always opens the end of the coconut that contains the soft spot, which may be hammered with his claw until an opening is made. Sometimes he seizes it so firmly with his claw that he can dash the nut against a rock and break it to pieces. But the husk has to be torn away, shred by shred, first.

SENATE GROUPS GET ARMY BILL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 4.—The American army of the future was tossed in a figurative cauldron of disputes today when the army appropriation bill was taken under consideration by the new army appropriations subcommittee of the senate.

Advocates of a "big army" ranging from 115,000 to 139,000, supported the president's appeal for an "adequate land defense." Strenuous opposition was to come from "little army" proponents, led by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho. The Borah bloc demands a reduction to 100,000 men.

The army appropriation bill, which will control the size of the nation's future land fighting forces through the size of the payroll provided, was discussed by conferees from three senate committees under a new senate rule. Representatives of the senate appropriations, military affairs and commerce committees attended the conference.

It was indicated today that the bill probably will be reported to the senate by the end of the week.

SENATE EXCITED OVER DISMISSALS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 4.—The senate was plunged into a turmoil of political strife today when Republicans and Democrats clashed over the shakeup in the bureau of printing and engraving, and Senator New of Indiana, an administration spokesman, warmly defended President Harding from Democratic attacks led by Senator Caraway of Arkansas.

Senator New replied to Caraway by flaying the Wilson administration as "more flagrantly partisan than any other in the entire history of the country" and as one that "filled all the departments of the government with thousands of Democratic incompetents."

TOMMY LOCATED IN WINE CELLAR

And He Sampled the Contents With the Result That He Was Removed to Police Headquarters Intoxicated Monday—A Speeder Fined.

There is a certain prominent citizen of Kingston who had a wood pile that he desired attacked, cut up and stored away for use in the kitchen range and the furnace, and he employed one Tommy Corcoran, who is just stopping in these parts for a short time, to do the job.

Tommy started work on Monday, and it will be remembered that it was an ideal spring day with the warm rays of the sun making delightful the atmosphere. Tommy worked and Tommy perspired and Tommy to the cellar retired. There in a recess dark and cool he found a mixture that resembled a mule. Not in appearance it must be stated, but, Oh Boy! in action it had a mule's kick faded.

Well Tommy smelt and Tommy tasted, and the rest of the afternoon was wasted. For Tommy retired behind the cellar stair and laid himself down with a tired air. And as he snoozed in slumber profound the snores he emitted created a mournful sound.

And it gave those who heard it a scary thrill and the telephone bell rang wild and shrill and shortly after the cops arrive and take Tommy for a city hall drive. There in a bunk in a police cell Tommy was left to finish his snooze and rid himself of the load of booze.

This morning Tommy awoke with an aching head, and into police court then he was led. As he held his head with a shaking hand he listened to to the charge as read "Public intoxication" was what Judge Groves said.

"How do you plead?" asked the court, but Tommy then for mercy sought. His plea was answered and he was free with a warning hereafter to let another's wine be.

James Biradi of East Kingston, who had been arrested by Officer Soper on a charge of speeding was fined $5 by Judge Groves, who occupied the bench in the absence of Judge Schirick. Biradi paid his fine.

CONGRESS COLD TO MINE OWNERSHIP

Miners' Chief Equally Unapproving Of Government Wage Tribunal Plan—Indications Grow That Coal Strike Will Be Long.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 4.—The recommendation of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, that the government take over the coal mines and operate them in the interests of the public, as the only possible cure for the ills with which the industry is affected, left congress cold today.

Even the most ardent advocate of governmental ownership entertained no hopes that such a program could be put through, although many members of congress are convinced that sooner or later, as Lewis said, some such remedy will have to be found.

Indications increased today that the coal strike is to a long-drawn-out controversy. Testimony from both sides, as brought out by congressional investigation, disclosed that the coal operators will not enter into any country-wide wage agreement, and as for the miners, the testimony has been equally positive that they will not make any state or local agreements, and will agree to settlement only on a nation-wide basis.

The positiveness and apparent determination on both sides left congressional investigators in somewhat of a quandary today although they pursued their inquiry into conditions leading up to the controversy. Lewis again was the chief witness.

A pet plan of some members of congress was emphatically rejected by the miners' chief. This scheme contemplated the creation of a governmental agency, clothed with authority to fix wages and regulate working conditions a sort of permanent peace and arbitration body.

"It will not do," said Lewis.

"When the government extends its powers to deprive its free citizens of their birthright as such a tribunal would do, you would find that it would operate most unsuccessfully. It is wrong in theory, for no government has the right to say what hours and for what wages a man shall work. The miners are not favorable to the creation of any governmental tribunal empowered to fix wages and regulate working hours. The very theory is repugnant to them."

Lewis will leave the capital late today for New York following his appearance before the house labor committee.

The miners' chief apparently was in an optimistic frame of mind today considering the situation along the central competitive "front."

"All my reports," he said, "are excellent. They show a 100 percent walkout and every indication points to it remaining so."

Leon Trotzky, commissar for war in the soviet government, in a speech at Moscow, indicated Russia's willingness to reduce the Red army. RUSSO-GERMAN AMITY INCREASES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, April 4.—The Russo-German agreement, worked out by the soviet delegation to the Genoa conference and representatives of the German government, began to bear fruit today.

In compliance with the understanding which provides mutual guarantees not to allow propaganda against the existing form of government in Berlin or Moscow, the Russian delegation suppressed the local Bolsheviki newspaper Novi Mir ("New Morning").

The Russians also have suppressed all subsidies to German Communist newspapers.

The Russian economic experts, headed by Leonid Krassin, received instructions to make the following demands at the Genoa conference:

1—Freedom of the seas.

2—Recognition of the soviet mercantile flag.
